Synopsis

In 1878, Ed Muldie and his three sons leave Kentucky to take advantage of free land offered by the United States government through the Homestead Act. They settle in Nicodemus, Kansas, and build a dugout home to live in for the winter.

During the harsh winter, the people of Nicodemus are saved from starvation by Osage Indians who bring them food. The following spring, Mr. Muldie travels ahead to find a place to build a new home away from the flat prairie. While living by themselves in the dugout, the three boys narrowly escape a prairie fire. When a letter from Mr. Muldie arrives, the three boys must travel 150 miles alone to be with their father.

Dig Deeper:

6. The boys had to walk 150 miles to meet their father. If you were asked to do this, do you think you could? _____

7. Ecclesiastes 4:9–12 says:

Two are better than one, because they have a good return for their work: If one falls down, his friend can help him up. But pity the man who has no one to help him up! Also, if two lie down together, they will keep warm. But how can one keep warm alone? Though one may be overpowered, two can defend themselves. A cord of three strands is not quickly broken.

Explain these verses in your own words. _____

Do you think any of the boys could have made the 150 mile journey alone? Why or why not? _____

Answer Key

Note: Most of the questions in Progeny Press study guides deal with students' understanding and interpretation of issues in the novel; therefore, most answers will be individual to the student. Progeny Press answer keys are designed to be as inclusive as possible for the teacher and/or parent, giving enough background and information to judge whether the student has grasped the essence of the issue and the question. We try to point out some directions students' answers might take, which directions might be best, and some errors that may appear. Students are not expected to answer as completely as the answers provided in the Answer Key.

Chapters 1 & 2

Questions:

1. The Muldie family moved to Kansas to take advantage of free land offered under the Homestead Act.
2. Mr. Muldie said that living in a hole in the ground was for animals only. He offered to build houses for everyone in town.
3. The music, the singing, and the good food like cornbread made the dugout feel like a home. Answers will vary.
4. It would be hard to survive the Kansas winter. The winter was mean because it was very cold and very windy.
5. The boys had heard stories about Indians and thought their lives were in danger.
6. The Indians brought them the food they needed and wood to burn. Answers will vary on the second part of this question.
7. The Indians had food so they shared with the people of Nicodemus.
8. He wanted his sons to speak well of and defend the Indians when they heard people saying bad things about Indians. Answers will vary on the second part of this question.

Chapters 3 & 4

Questions:

1. The boys hunted, fished, cooked, swept the dugout clean, and baked their own cornbread. They made a wagon for Little Brother and never let him out of their sight.
